THAT "TIRADE OF 'RIGHTEOUS' INDIGNATION"

In the language of common parlance the Farmington News seems to have its wires crossed. Last week under the heading given above in an article it undertakes to get on both sides of the question in hand, swaps and straddles until the situation to the thinking, intelligent reader becomes ridiculous. A few excerpts from the article will easily reveal the situation. Note them. They relate to the proposition that Democratic politicians have raised a fund for the purpose of helping bring out a progressive ticket.

The News says: "The News has made no such charge." But read on, will you? What is this but the very charge itself? We do not believe that any of the men who have filed on the Progressive ticket have received any of the funds. We do not believe that all the Democratic candidates are in on the scheme. "It might be interesting for Republicans to know what Democratic candidates are most active in the matter."

Is it not true that our esteemed contemporary while saying that the "News has made no such charge, etc.," goes right ahead and makes the very charge which it denies making. No, the charge is not made frankly and openly, but is rather couched in the language of insinuation and innuendo—a method calculated to do more hurt—the kind of policy used to besmirch reputations, arouse discord, and inflame the mind, without the incrimination of the author. It would not have been so shrewdly done to have come out and said just what was meant, but would have been higher grade politics.

In view of these facts a few questions here are not out of the way. Will the Farmington News please name the Democratic candidates that have contributed to a fund for the purpose of helping bring out a Progressive ticket in St. Francois county? What Progressive has received the money, please? Surely if money has been raised to contribute to the fund, etc., some Progressive has received the money; for the insinuation is that the Democrats have paid funds to some Progressive. The people want to know just who these men are. Don't forget to name them.

Yes, and more, there is a Democratic candidate that made the offer to pay $250.00 in cash to a Standpat Republican if he could produce the man to whom even one dollar had been paid to help bring out the Progressive ticket. But Mr. Standpatter at that time had business elsewhere. The Times is not authority for this particular candidate, but presumes that the proposition is still open. It may be further stated that the matter of giving financial encouragement to the launching of a Progressive ticket has never been considered to the knowledge of the Times. In this our esteemed contemporary is absolutely and certainly mistaken. But since the News is on the "inside" and knows that the Democrats have raised a fund for the purpose of bringing out a Progressive ticket, the Times will await with interest the information on this important point.

And as a further item of interest, the Times would like for the News to tell who paid the freight in the case of the canvass that a certain Progressive made over the county in an effort to line up the Progressives in a meeting to protest against the ticket that had been filed. The News no doubt is just as conversant with this matter as with the actions of the Democrats. The gentlemen who made the canvass is an honorable man, and one who would give forth information in case that he was put on the witness stand. It would seem that he is also a man that would not wish to give his service for nothing. Prey, tell who paid the freight? Standpatters no doubt have money to spend, and work of this character that would redound to their benefit ought to be paid for; thus it would seem that in justice to the worker the bill was paid. Name the Standpatters that paid the bill.

One of the important things at this stage of the game in the political contest within the county among the Democrats is to keep sweet. This, however, we would apply to candidates, and not only before the primary, but after. Time has been when a man simply because he was defeated in the primary, gave his support to the other side. It is high time that the Democrats of St. Francois county were keeping their eyes open, and noting just such men. A man who from this time forward after having been defeated turns his support to an opposing party should never in the future be considered for an office. Fact of the matter he is unworthy from a party standpoint of being elevated to any position within the gift of the party.

The Times does not for one moment question the loyalty of any one of the men who to-day are seeking a nomination at the hands of the Democrats of the county; and it is the hope of the Times that every man to a man will lay off his coat and roll up his sleeves when the primary has been held and the successful men announced, and work like a Trojan in order to help the party win within the county. This is not the only time there will be a vacancy in any of the county offices; thus if a man is not fortunate enough at this time to receive the nomination of the party there is in all probability a chance for him in the future; the time may come when he can win, and the fact that he has been loyal to the party will certainly be in his favor. Let not that man think that he can never get a county office at the hands of the Democrats of St. Francois county who bolts the ticket and lends aid to the enemy.
